FLAMES BREAK OUT AFRESH IN THE PELTA STORE

Quickly Extinguished by Firemen, Who Guard the Building All Night.

CHIEF ADVANCES THEORY

Thinks Cause Was Spontaneous Combustion of Cotton Batting—Estimates Loss $20,000.

Although it was believed that the fire at the Pelta store had been completely extinguished Saturday evening, the flames broke out anew about 3 o'clock yesterday morning, flickering periodically in several places in the store room. Two firemen had been left on duty, and the flames were put out with little trouble. A watch was maintained at the store all night.

After a careful inspection yesterday, Fire Chief P. D. McCartin is inclined to the belief that the fire was caused by spontaneous combustion of cotton batting. This opinion is shared by Charles T. Fertig, a prominent insurance man, who accompanied the chief over the damaged property, although both point out that their theory is only conjecture. Charles Pelta, one of the members of the firm, thinks it not unlikely that the flames had their origin in defective wiring. He bases this conclusion on the fact that at the time the blaze broke out, a number of persons say, they detected the odor of rubber burning, and Mr. Pelta says that the electric wires are insulated with a composition of that material.

"After looking over the building today, I believe that the total damage to it and the contents will amount to from $18,000 to $20,000," said Chief McCartin last night. Mr. Fertig is of the opinion that the loss to the stock of the Pelta store will come to that amount and that the damage to the building is slight.

Charles Pelta said that he is unable to form any estimate of his loss at present. If a shipment of goods that was to have been delivered last Saturday had arrived, the damage would have been greater, as the consignment consisted of $3,000 worth of clothing that Mr. Pelta would have had piled in the very room in which the fire broke out. As it was, the man who was to have hauled the goods to the store from the depot was unable to accomplish the work before noon and the job was then put off until today, as the store was filled with Saturday afternoon shoppers.

Loss Fully Covered.

The loss both to the building and the stock is fully covered by insurance, as announced yesterday. The Pelta Dry Goods company and Pelta Bros. carry $52,500 worth of insurance on stock, and $3,500 on fixtures.

The building is made up of two connecting structures, one owned by the estate of the late Mrs. Minna Chapman, for which the firm of Wills, Spackman and Kent is agent, and the other by Paul F. De La Vergne, who is in California. Matthew Kennedy is his agent. The De La Vergne section of the building, which is 65 feet deep, comprises the north frontage of 25 feet on Tejon street, and it is in the upper story of this end of the structure that the fire broke out. The remaining, or Chapman portion of the building, which occupies the corner of Cucharas and Tejon streets, has a frontage of 75 feet on Tejon street. This is protected by $10,000 worth of insurance, and the De La Vergne section by $3,500. Wills, Spackman and Kent estimate the damage to the corner property at $500, while the damage to the latter has not been

DIPLOMATS HONOR CATHOLIC PRELATE

Men of Every Faith Meet Cardinal Gibbons at Banquet in Washington.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Cardinal Gibbons made his annual visit to St. Patrick's parish in Washington today and the greeting given him went far beyond a purely catholic ceremony and became an official function at which prominent men of every faith sought to honor the distinguished prelate. Diplomats and American statesmen took part in the ceremonies.

The ceremonies consisted of early mass, high mass at 11 o'clock, followed by a reception at the rectory and a luncheon. St. Patrick's church was filled long before 11 o'clock and a great crowd gathered on the sidewalk and in the street. A reception at the rectory at noon was attended by several thousand persons.

The guests at the luncheon included the Italian ambassador, the Austrian ambassador, the ministers from Sweden, Chile, The Netherlands and Spain; Speaker Cannon, Senators Elkins, Aldrich, Beveridge, Carter, Overman and Taylor; Associate Justices White and McKenna of the supreme court; Representatives Goulden, Fornes, Fitzgerald, and Olcott of New York, and Ransdell of Louisiana; Dr. F. M. Egan, American minister to Denmark, Charles W. Russell, American minister to Persia; army and navy officers.

KNOX'S PLAN IS OPPOSED BY JAPAN

THE FEELING IN OTHER COUNTRIES.

Orientals Think Neutralization of Manchurian Railroads Is Impracticable.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 9.—The Russian foreign office has issued a statement embodying the memorandum of the United States government bearing on the neutralization of the Manchurian railways.

TOKIO, Jan. 9.—Baron Shibusawa, the noted economist; Count Okuma, former foreign minister, and Dr. Hatoyama, one of the leaders of the Conservative party, expressed themselves as emphatically opposed to Secretary Knox's proposal for the neutralization of the Manchurian railways.

Baron Shibusawa, who was the head of the honorary Japanese commissioners who recently visited the United States, said the plan could not be carried out, chiefly because of jealousy among the powers.

Count Okuma scouted the entire proposition as impractical and nebulous.

PARIS, Jan. 9.—Although France favors the preservation of the open door policy and Chinese sovereignty in Manchuria, it considers that the issues returned by the American proposition to neutralize the Manchurian railroads primarily concern Russia and Japan. The French reply to the American memorandum, therefore, is likely to be determined by the attitude of Russia, France's ally.

Complicated Question.

The French press regards the question as complicated. The Figaro thinks the United States is trying to retrieve its mistake in 1904-05 when it backed Japan to get Russia out of Manchuria, only to find that Japan had supplanted her there without benefit to the open door.

The Gil Blas expresses the opinion that the situation is filled with gunpowder, and declares that the real issue is commercial supremacy in China, for which the United States and Japan are struggling.

"Even after the arrangements of October 4 last year," continues the paper, "in which China agreed not to construct a railroad in competition with the South Manchurian, American support comes forward for the construction of the Chin-Chow-Aigun line. Now, America proposes to go further and force Japan back into Korea, and thus render effective Chinese domination of Manchuria, which today is purely nominal.

"Secretary Knox's arguments dwell upon the advisability of terminating the cause of constantly renewed disputes in Manchuria, but it is proper to ask whether the aim of the United States is always to the benefit of humanity or to the promotion of her own interests. Tokio must give the answer, ests. Tokio must give the answer. Already the Yankee policy has compelled Japan to take military precautions that so greatly alarmed Russia. Japan knows how to act quickly. Therefore, the Japanese response will be awaited with inquietude."

Wants German Support.

PEKIN, Jan. 9.—The highest government officials are pessimistic with regard to British support of the proposals of the American government relative to the Manchurian railway, and believe that more active German support would bring about a realization of the scheme.

The Chinese government is placing reliance in W. W. Rockhill, the American ambassador at St. Petersburg, to secure Russian assent to the proposals, which would also mean French support.

HARBIN, Jan. 9.—The Chinese, British and American residents have held demonstrations in approval of the American memorandum. The British subjects approve the memorandum on the ground that the plan furnishes the only means to safeguard equal opponents in trade and commerce.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—The Daily News in an editorial expressing the hope that Great Britain will give its fullest support to the American proposal to neutralize the Manchurian railways, says:

"It is in thorough harmony with America's traditions in the far east for the United States of America is the only western country able to look China in the face without the blush of shame."

SLEEPERS ROUTED BY EARLY MORNING BLAZE

A coal bin, in the basement of the Star and Crescent creamery, at 132 South Cascade avenue, caused a call for the fire department at 2 o'clock this morning. The blaze was extinguished with a few pailfuls of water, but not until after the smoke had made its way through the building and into the plant of The Evening Telegraph, which has part of the main floor, and caused some alarm among persons occupying rooms in the upper stories.

AN AGED RECLUSE LEAVES FORTUNE

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 9.—A fortune of $60,000 in gilt edged securities awaits the heirs of Jeremiah Moynihan, an aged ragman who died here Friday. Apparently in destitute circumstances he was to have been buried in the potter's field today but the public administrator found in his effects a key to a safety deposit vault containing bonds worth $60,000. Moynihan was 50 years old, and lived alone having no relatives in this country as far as known.

GENERAL SHAKEUP IN INDIAN SERVICE STARTED

Interior Department Finding "Disgraceful Conditions" in Oklahoma, the Cause.

FOUR MEN SUSPENDED

Officials Affected Hint That Politics Is Behind Move Make Denials.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Secretary Ballinger of the interior department today suspended from office, Superintendent John D. Benedict of the Five Civilized tribes of Oklahoma, and three supervisors, as the result of an investigation that has disclosed "a disgraceful condition" affecting the material and moral welfare of the schools.

As a result of the investigation that the interior department has been carrying on for some time, and which will be continued, other officials of the Indian service may suffer a like fate to that of Superintendent Benedict and the three supervisors suspended today.

The investigation that resulted in today's action was begun because of reports, charging the officials already suspended as well as others, with activities improper for government employes. The suspended supervisors are Calvin Ballard, of the Choctaw schools at McAlester; Frederick H. Umholz, of the Chickasaw schools at Ardmore, and Walter Falwell, of the Creek schools at Muskogee. Before any further action is taken in their cases, the four men will be allowed to answer the charges before the secretary of the interior.

From the report it appears that Superintendent Benedict is connected with certain business interests in Oklahoma that have dealings with Indians. This relationship, it was believed, was wholly incompatible with his service as superintendent. He had permitted the schools, it was reported, to fall into a disgraceful condition, and the supervisors have neglected their duties affecting the material and moral conditions surrounding the conduct of the schools.

Superintendent Relieved.

Oscar H. Lipps, supervisor of Indian schools, who has been sent to Oklahoma to investigate the charges, notified the department today that he has relieved Superintendent Benedict pending the result of the investigation. The duties of the suspended supervisors will be performed, temporarily, by detailed clerks of the Indian office. Superintendent Benedict has been connected with the Indian service for 10 years.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 9.—John D. Benedict and other accused Indian officials made a full denial of the charges of Secretary Ballinger when interviewed tonight. They hint that politics might be held responsible for the accusations and that supervisor Oscar H. Lipps' methods were nothing less than "sneaky."

"I have had an idea that something of the kind would happen for some time," said Superintendent Benedict, when talked to at his home in Muskogee. "It has been brought to my attention in more ways than one that other fellows are after my job and so, I telegraphed to Washington last week asking that, should there be any charges against my administration I might have a chance to answer them. I received a reply that I would be given full opportunity to prepare and present my answer.

"I have no idea what is referred to by 'disgraceful conditions.' It is prob-

WITHDRAWS SUPPORT FROM INSURGENTS

Republican Congressional Campaign Committee Will Protect President Taft.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Those opposed to Republican doctrine and policies as interpreted by the present administration can expect no support from the regular wing of the Republican party. Such a warning to insurgents was sent out in a statement by the Republican congressional campaign committee.

The statement was issued, it was explained to meet the allegation that the committee is attempting to prevent the renomination of those insurgents who have antagonized the organization of the House of Representatives.

The inference is that the statement has the indorsement of President Taft. It is said to have been written after a conference of leading committees at the White House and that the sentiments expressed are those of the administration exactly.

While the circular admits it is beyond the privilege of the committee to take part in the contest for nominations, it holds that it has the right to criticise and condemn those who oppose the Taft administration and the acts of the Republican party.

ARE THEY LOST?

TO PUNISH SLAYERS OF TWO AMERICANS

ORDERS CONGRESS RECEIVES IN NICARAGUA.

If Extradition Is Asked, Zelaya Will Be [illegible] Other Foreign Citizen.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Jan. 9.—President Madriz is greatly cast down by the death of General Fornas Diaz, who was drowned while on his way to Managua to discuss a peace settlement with the president. General Diaz was a warm friend of Madriz, and it would have been possible for the president and the representative of the provisional government to go over the whole situation with some expectation of an amicable agreement.

Dr. Madriz is hopeful of the early appointment of a delegate to take the place of General Diaz, but he fears that the new peace envoy will represent only the liberal element of the revolutionists. Word has come to him that the conservatives, led by General Chamorro, mean to continue fighting, and he has been warned that Chamorro and his army are advancing toward Managua, through the department of Chontales. The government will oppose the advance at Lamango.

According to the advices received here, a split has occurred in the ranks of the revolutionists and it is believed that one faction will reject all overtures of peace.

President Madriz has ordered congress to punish whoever was responsible for the execution of the Americans, Groce and Cannon. As ex-President Zelaya does not appear officially in the records of the court-martial, the responsibility can not be fixed on him. Possibly some official will be found guilty, probably Salomon Selva, the prosecuting attorney who officiated at the trial. He may, however, produce instructions from Zelaya authorizing his action. In that event congress might order the trial of Zelaya.

Zelaya Only Foreign Citizen.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Former President Zelaya of Nicaragua, if his extradition from Mexico is asked for, will be treated as any other foreign citizen in the latter republic, existing treaties between Mexico and Nicaragua and the Mexican laws on the subject being taken into careful consideration. This was the declaration of Senor De La Barra, ambassador from Mexico to the United States, who arrived here today on his return from his country.

Absolutely no change in the friendly feeling between Mexico and the United States has taken place according to Senor De La Barra. The two countries are as one, he asserted, in their desire to bring about a resumption of peaceful conditions in Nicaragua.

The ambassador tomorrow will pay his respects to Secretary Knox and possibly arrange a date for a conference on the future joint action of Mexico and the United States as regards Nicaragua.

WILL TAKE PART IN PANAMERICAN MEETING

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—The coming fourth Panamerican conference, to be held in Buenos Ayres in July, is now occupying the attention of officials of the state department and others interested in the meeting. The United States committee has elected Major General Davis, United States army, retired, as one of its members and appointed a committee to urge upon Congress the necessity of a proper appropriation for the participation of the United States.

DR. FRANKLIN HEADS PERMANENT COUNCIL

NEW BODY DIRECTS CHURCH FEDERATION OF CITY.

Rev. J. B. Trimble Will Arrive Here Soon to Arrange for Laymen's Convention

A church federation council which is to direct the affairs of the Church Federation of the city, was launched at a meeting of delegates from the various churches, at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon. The Rev. J. H. Franklin was elected president; H. Alexander Smith, vice president; C. B. Hall, executive secretary; R. A. Chadwick, Jr., recording secretary, and A. G. Sharp, treasurer. These permanent officers, together with a second vice president, whose appointment has not been filled, and Dr. William F. Slocum, the Rev. Merle N. Smith and Dr. O. W. Spicer, will constitute the executive committee of the council.

Mr. Hall read a letter received from the Rev. J. B. Trimble, field secretary of the Laymen's Missionary movement, stating that the writer will be in Colorado Springs the fifteenth, sixteenth and seventeenth of this month. At that time steps will be taken towards organizing the laymen's convention, to be held in Colorado Springs March 2 to 4, and at which it is expected there will be an attendance of 1,000 delegates. Similar conventions are to be held in 60 different cities of the Union on or near that date. Delegates will come to Colorado Springs from that part of the state south of an imaginary line drawn east and west through Palmer Lake. All Protestant denominations will be represented.

THREE KILLED IN RAILROAD WRECK

Switch Engine, Avoiding One Train Crashes Into Rear of Another.

SHREVEPORT, La., Jan. 9.—Three people were killed and one fatally injured as a result of a collision about 11:30 tonight, in the Texas and Pacific freight yards, between a Kansas City Southern switch engine and train No. 53, westbound on the Texas and Pacific.

The dead:

JOHN CORNWELL, conductor of Texas and Pacific train, Marshall, Tex.

PERCY PARRISH, switchman, Shreveport.

MISS EVANS, a passenger, Boyce, Louisiana.

Fatally injured:

John Brandon, porter on the Pullman.

The passenger train was backing through the yards from the passenger station when the switch engine, hurrying to get out of the way of another passenger train due, crashed into the Pullman attached to the rear of train No. 53, plowing its way for fully half the length of the Pullman. Conductor Cornwell and Miss Evans were standing on the rear platform of the Pullman when the switch engine struck it and were buried beneath the debris.

TO TRIAL TODAY ON CONSPIRACY CHARGE

BINGER HERMANN INDICTED IN 1905.

Alleged to Have Been Connected With Most Stupendous of Oregon Land Frauds.

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 9.—Binger Hermann, who, for 16 years represented Oregon in Congress and for several years was commissioner of the general land office at Washington, will face tomorrow in the United States district court a charge of conspiracy to defraud the United States government of a part of the public domain.

The indictment under which he is to be tried was returned February 13, 1905, and the conspiracy, it alleges, was the most stupendous in conception of all the Oregon land fraud cases. Hermann was jointly indicted with the late United States senator John H. Mitchell, former state senator, and ex-deputy United States District Attorney Franklin Pierce Mays, former state representative Willard N. Jones, George Sorenson, a professional politician and H. A. Smith, deceased.

Of these Mays, Jones and Sorenson, on September 12, 1906, were convicted as charged in the indictment.

Senator Mitchell and Smith died without coming to trial. Congressman Williamson was convicted under another indictment and, following the procedure of the government prosecutors in the Oregon land fraud cases was not tried on this indictment.

Hermann's trial has been postponed year after year, sometimes at his own request and sometimes by the inability for various reasons of Francis J. Heney, to conduct the trial. At the trial of Mays, Jones and Sorenson who were convicted under the indictment, witnesses testified that they conspired to have set apart as a forest reserve 200,000 acres of land in Oregon and other states.

Testimony in Other Cases.

The testimony showed that Mays, Jones and Sorenson sought to benefit by securing the 14,000 acres of state school lands embraced within the reserve, which they proposed to use as a base of exchange for timber lands, located in other parts of the states, a privilege granted by the act of Congress June 5, 1897. Evidence was introduced, apparently intended to show that this territory, though flatly in violation of the law, both advanced information as to the identity of the government agent who was to pass on the merits of the proposed reserve and as to the date the temporary withdrawal was to be made and information on the latter point was given out by Hermann, who was then commissioner of the general land office. Captain S. B. Ormsby, government agent, was designated to view the proposed reserve. Ormsby confessed at the trial of Mays, Jones and Sorenson that he reported in favor of the withdrawal and that in consideration he was given two sections of the school land.

The temporary withdrawal of the reserve was made, according to the testimony by the then acting secretary of the interior Ryan, on the recommendation of Hermann, July 23, 1902. It was also testified that Hermann gave out on July 22 the fact that the withdrawal was to be made.

Francis J. Heney, special prosecutor, and senior counsel John McCourt, United States district attorney for Oregon, and Tracy C. Becker, assistant attorney general of the United States will represent the government.

NOT TO INVESTIGATE ADMINISTRATION TOO CLOSELY

Apparent That Some of Leaders Want Forestry Service Inquiry Restricted.

GARFIELD LAUDS PINCHOT

Former Secretary of Interior Says Loss of Forester Is Greatest in Years.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 9.—Gifford Pinchot, dismissed chief forester, was lauded today in a public address by former secretary of the interior, James R. Garfield, as the most active exponent of the Roosevelt policy.

"Gifford Pinchot, who has just left the service of the national government is one man who perhaps worked the hardest for the Roosevelt doctrine of conservation of our natural resources and his principle of equal opportunities for all," said Mr. Garfield. "His departure from the national service is one of the greatest losses the national government has sustained in recent years."

Mr. Garfield expressed the hope that Mr. Pinchot's activities as a friend of the conservation movement would continue.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—The present week probably will determine whether there will be a prolonged conflict involving the President of the United States within the ranks of the Republican party in Congress. Conditions have tended in that direction for some time, but instead of adding to the impulse, the dismissal of Mr. Pinchot apparently has caused a halt.

There is no denying, however, that in some respects the situation remains critical. Mr. Pinchot has a large number of personal friends in both houses of Congress, who would be inclined to take up his cause if favorable opportunity should present itself and if they could do so without endangering the [illegible]. On the other hand, many are saying that the personal fortunes of Messrs. Ballinger and Pinchot are of little importance compared to party harmony, and are urging the necessity of presenting any such a reported conflict in Congress in the differences between the secretary of the interior and the former chief of the forest service.

Whether the conservative counsel of this element prevails, will depend upon the course of events in Congress during the next few days.

Can Narrow the Inquiry.

There is no doubt that the investigation of the interior department and of the forestry service will proceed along the lines indicated by the Jones-Humphrey resolution; but it will be competent for the investigating committee either to broaden or to narrow the inquiry and if the advice of many leaders is followed, this inquiry will be restricted, as much as possible, especially now that Mr. Pinchot is eliminated from the dispute as an official factor.

The question will receive its next attention on the floor of the Senate. The present situation is this: The House has adopted the resolution providing for the appointment of its members of the committee by the House itself, rather than by the speaker, as was originally provided. Without awaiting official notification as to the action of the House, the Senate committee on public lands has decided to report the resolution in such a form as to authorize the selection of the House members by the speaker. Unquestionably this action

WILEY SAYS FLOUR NEED NOT BE WHITE

Intimates That Fight on Millers Is by Men Who Sell Bleaching Machinery.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—"It is just to please the eye. No good can come from making flour white," declared Chemist Wiley, of the department of agriculture. "You cannot find any great amount of bleached flour going into interstate commerce now. Every time I cut a loaf of bread, I rejoice, because instead of its having the whiteness of a corpse, it has that beautiful delicate amber tint that all bread ought to have.

WORTH A TRIAL.

From the Washington Star.

Joseph H. Choate, at one of the many Hudson-Fulton dinners, said of American prosperity:

"In our country alone a frugal and active man need never want. In our country alone destitution can be imputed only to faults of character, or constitution.

"Investigate your destitute, and they will always prove unfit for some reason or other to succeed.

"Thus a friend of mine, a philanthropist, said one day to a well known village veteran:

"'Well, uncle, I haven't seen you at church for several Sundays. Why is it?'

"'The fact is, boss,' the old man replied, 'I'm so tarnation shabby I kinder hate to appear before respectable folks in rags.'

"'Ah, uncle, uncle,' said my friend. And he added significantly, 'Suppose I should tell you to come home with me, uncle, and take your choice between a bottle of beer I've got on the sideboard and a good coat I've got in a closet upstairs. Which would you choose?'

"The old man smiled and shook his head. Then he said with a winning smile:

"'Well, boss, that's a hard nut to crack. But I reckin if I had that bottle of beer fust I'd be so perked up I'd be more'n able afterward to argufy you into givin' me the coat, too.'"

In 1908 the American merchant marine carried only 1⅛ per cent of the freight between the United States and Uruguay.

CURTISS AND PAULHAN, AERIAL RIVALS, SHAKE HANDS AT MEETING AT LOS ANGELES; MEET WILL BE CORKER

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 9.—Glenn H. Curtiss, in the biplane belonging to Clifford Harmon of New York, made three short flights late today at Dominguez aviation field. The first time he remained up half a minute; the second time, 40 seconds, and the third, one minute and 10 seconds. On the third flight he traveled three-quarters of a mile on the hexagon course. This was the first time the Harmon machine had been in the air.

Louis Paulhan, the French aviator, and holder of the aerial speed record for one mile, and two members of his syndicate of flyers, Miscarol and Masson, arrived here today ready to enter tomorrow the first aeroplane contest of the international meet. They brought with them two Bleriot monoplanes, and two Farman biplanes, in which tomorrow Masson and Miscarol will soar in competition with Willard, Hamilton and Curtiss in the speed and height tests.

The addition of the foreign machines brings the total of heavier-than-air craft in the group to nine. The crew of five mechanicians brought with him by Paulhan will work throughout tonight and be ready for the flights tomorrow. Before evening they were set up and ready, with the exception of installing the engines. Standing beside the five Curtiss type machines in the great shelter tent, they looked gigantic.

The Curtiss machines are the smallest successful aeroplanes yet developed, but the inventor declared today that he fully expected to see the speed records lowered, while he hoped himself to surpass the high flights of his chief French competitor during the coming 10 days.

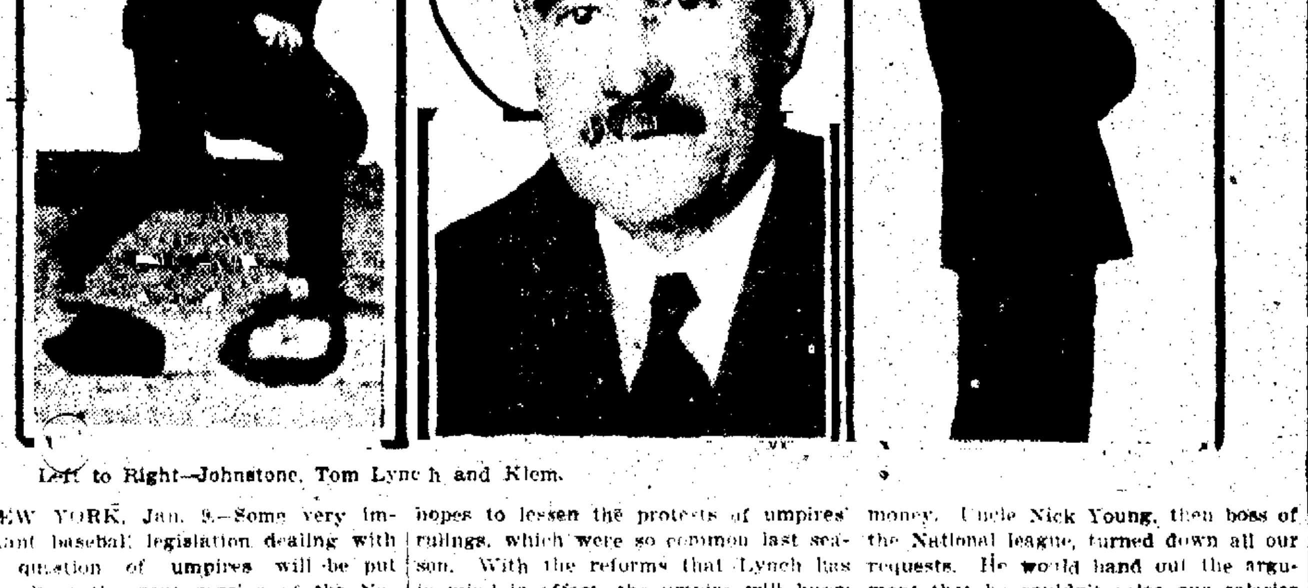

Charles K. Hamilton, who is here fresh from his recent flights in Kansas City, is being groomed by Curtiss to beat Paulhan's official speed record of a mile in two minutes and one-fifth second.

Curtiss was in working clothes when the Frenchmen appeared in the shelter tent. He speaks no French, and Paulhan no English, so they shook hands in solemn silence. Clifford Harmon, the New York millionaire sportsman, who will fly here, and who is more than six feet tall, was standing near. Noting the size of the two aviators, he shook his head and remarked:

"This is the first time I ever wanted to be small."

Like Curtiss, Paulhan found the course not quite to his liking, because the aviators would have either to breast an incline or go down it in starting. He also voted for a hexagonal course, and at once a score of roadmaking machines and scrapers were set at work smoothing out a getaway, which will permit starts level with the prairielike plateau that continues almost up to the base of the mountains which shut in the valley on the east.

UMPIRES WILL BENEFIT FROM BACKBONE OF NEW PRESIDENT

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—Some very important baseball legislation dealing with the question of umpires will be put through at the next session of the National league moguls, in February. President Tom Lynch has decided that the umpire end of the game needs overhauling. Heretofore attention has centered on the doings of the players. The judges of play have received little consideration, no one deeming them and their works important enough to take up the time of the magnates in session. The umpires are to be the big noise the coming season, for the National president will back them to the limit.

Lynch's idea is to find out just where the game can be improved from an umpire's standpoint, and then ask the magnates to enact baseball laws governing one or more suggestions on reforms that he will make. In this manner Lynch hopes to lessen the protests of umpires' rulings, which were so common last season. With the reforms that Lynch has in mind in effect, the umpire will know just where he stands and how far he can go. It will be a case of the umpires running the game, and not the magnates.

Tim Hurst is naturally pleased at the election of Tom Lynch as National league president. "All they need now," says Tim, "is to elect another umpire as vice president of the league."

Tim and Lynch worked together for years, and they ought to know each other well. Tim says Lynch will have all the magnates calling him Mr. Lynch in short order, and he'll be president with a capital P. Tim tells a story of Lynch that shows the honesty of the man.

"Years ago," says Hurst, "Lynch, Bob Emslie and I combined to strike for more money. Uncle Nick Young, then boss of the National league, turned down all our requests. He would hand out the argument that he couldn't raise our salaries because this club had lost money, and so had that one. Well, we threatened to hold out even after the season opened.

"One day Lynch received a letter from Uncle Nick, telling him that his salary would be raised $150, but not to say anything to Emslie or me. Here's where Lynch's character came to the surface. Instead of putting the letter under his belt, he promptly mailed it to me. In the course of a few days I got a similar letter from President Young, and before the season opened we all got our advance."

"Will Lynch be a real president?" Tim asked his own question. "Well, I hate to think of anybody going to him and looking for a shade the best of it."

DEFI OF HURLINGHAM ILL ADVISED, SAY BRITISHERS

LONDON, Jan. 9.—Although The Field, in discussing Hurlingham's polo challenge to America, disavows any spirit of antagonism it evidently has little faith in the club's ability to put a winning team in the field within the time given.

The decision to issue a challenge, it says has been received with astonishment by the polo public, and it doubts if sufficient funds can be collected, and believes the interval between May and August wholly inadequate for the necessary preparations, when the Americans spent seven years and $100,000 under the thorough supervision of Whitney before they could win the cup.

"Have we, then," says the writer, "the conceit to believe that in 12 or 14 weeks we can outrival opponents who proved themselves unmistakably superior and left behind the impression no British combination could have defeated them? The Englishman isn't constitutionally so tractable as his American cousin. He won't submit to the same grind of training, first for individual strokes, then for combination."

After speaking of the difficulties regarding ponies, The Field concludes that after seeing what can be done by an American team directed by personal authority, the chief thing lacking in England is a proper leader.

STAR GUARD O'BRIEN HEADS BOULDER ELEVEN

BOULDER, Jan. 9.—John O'Brien, star guard for the University of Colorado football team for the past three years, and all-Colorado guard for the season of 1909, has been elected captain of the state school team for the coming season. The choice is a popular one among the students, as the "Fighting Irishman" has been ... to be the logical ... for the place since the close of the 1909 season.

O'Brien will succeed "Bull" Stirrett, who handled the aggregation during the past year, and who made such an enviable record in that position. This is Stirrett's last year in school as he graduates from the law department in the spring. Stirrett and O'Brien have been teammates for seven years, having played for four years as quarterback and halfback, respectively, on the Cripple Creek High school team before coming to the university.

Since his advent into college athletics O'Brien has been considered as one of the classiest line men engaged in western football. His fighting, aggressive manner and his heady playing not only in stopping bucks through the line, but also in getting down the field with his ends, has won for him recognition from the most critical students of the game.

During the season of 1909 he distinguished himself more than ever before, and because of his ability to follow the ball and his fierce tackling he was the first choice for the guard position of every man who picked an all-Colorado team at the end of the year. This is his third year in school, and his election to the captaincy of the football team is looked upon by the student body as a just reward for his three years of effort.

In addition to his activity on the gridiron, "Cripple Creek Jawn" has caught for the baseball team and is at present a member of the Colorado student commission.

HARVARD'S GRIDIRON STAR NOW ON WALL ST.

CAMBRIDGE, Jan. 9.—It can be stated authoritatively that Hamilton Fish, Jr., who has absented himself from college for some time now, will return to Harvard some time late in the spring to take his degree, for he has finished his major courses and can easily take care of the little remaining work he has to do. But Harvard will never again know Hamilton Fish, Jr., as an undergraduate if he persists in his present course.

He has entered his father's office at 52 Wall street, New York city, as the latter's secretary, and it is learned that he has taken the precaution to secure an extended leave of absence from his college authorities, a leave covering the entire second semester of his senior year.

The feeling in the senior class over the affair is known to be growing steadily higher instead of abating, as it had been hoped would be the case with Fish's absence, and it has spread to the whole student body. The trouble is a deep-rooted one, and few of Fish's classmates and members of the opposition to him make any bones about admitting that Fish lost the first marshalship because of conditions in the football squad.

Equally, friends of Captain Fish bitterly resent any questions that may be asked concerning him, and they declare that the opposition went out of its way to offend a man whose impulses and greatest endeavors have always been for Harvard's welfare. Whether the faculty will take any action in the controversy remains to be seen.

The names coupled on the campus with Fish's absence are those of Percy Haughton, head coach of the Harvard football teams of the last two seasons, and Lothrop Withington, captain of the 1910 eleven. Withington's slowness to choose or designate a coach for next fall and the recent immigration to Cambridge of "Dave" Campbell, where he is to engage in a business that will leave him plenty of time for football, indicate, so many Harvard students intimate, that Withington sides with Fish in the row that has developed.

OLDFIELD MAKES RECORD

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 9.—Barney Oldfield, driving his Benz racer over Ascot park mile track, today broke the world's circular track records for two, three, four and five miles. His time for the five miles was 4:24 1-5, as against the previous record of 4:26, held by Ralph De Palma.

ISSUES CHALLENGE

PARIS, Jan. 9.—The Aero Club of France has decided to issue a formal challenge to the Aero Club of America for balloon and aeroplane international cups. The French Wright company has adopted a tail to the Wright aeroplanes, and the trials have proved highly satisfactory. Both Wilbur and Orville Wright have always been opposed to such appliances for their machines.

RACE RESULTS

JUAREZ, Mexico, Jan. 9.—Three track records were made at Terrazas park track today. Servile, carrying 100 pounds, ran the mile in 1:38, which is 1 3-5 seconds faster than the best previous time, made by Glorio. Ocean Queen stepped the three-fourths of a mile in 1:12, while Richard Reed ran the five furlongs in 0:59 2-5. The weather was fine and a big crowd turned out. Three favorites won.

NAMES LAYMAN AS HEALTH COMMISSIONER.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—Mayor Gaynor maintained his reputation for political whimsicalities tonight by appointing a layman, independent in politics, to succeed Dr. Thomas A. Darlington, as health commissioner. The appointee is Ernest J. Lederle, who resigns a position as consulting sanitary engineer with the state and local water supply boards, which paid him $15,000 a year. His position as health commissioner carries a salary of half that amount.

Mr. Lederle is an expert chemist and a graduate of Columbia University but he is not a doctor of medicine. He was head of the board of health under Mayor Lowe.

The mayor also appointed Charles R. Stover, prominently identified with settlement work and park improvement to succeed Henry Smith as park commissioner. This is a position which Herman Ridder, publisher of the Staats Zeitung declined.

Afraid of Ghosts

Many people are afraid of ghosts. Few people are afraid of germs. Yet the ghost is a fancy and the germ is a fact. If the germ could be magnified to a size equal to its terrors it would appear more terrible than any fire-breathing dragon. Germs can't be avoided. They are in the air we breathe, the water we drink.

The germ can only prosper when the condition of the system gives it free scope to establish itself and develop. When there is a deficiency of vital force, languor, restlessness, a sallow cheek, a hollow eye, when the appetite is poor and the sleep is broken, it is time to guard against the germ. You can fortify the body against all germs by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It increases the vital power, cleanses the system of clogging impurities, enriches the blood, puts the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition in working condition, so that the germ finds no weak or tainted spot in which to breed. "Golden Medical Discovery" contains no alcohol, whisky or habit-forming drugs. All its ingredients printed on its outside wrapper. It is not a secret nostrum but a medicine OF KNOWN COMPOSITION and with a record of 40 years of cures. Accept no substitute—there is nothing "just as good." Ask your neighbors.

STAGE IS IMMORAL

According to Arguments of 12 Ministers Who Unite in Attack on It.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 9.—Twelve ministers in the city's leading churches of all denominations united in a general attack on the so-called degeneracy of the stage today. When the attack was over the stage stood accused of being immoral and the source of the divorce evil. The preachers demanded a municipal censor to bar problem plays and indecent musical productions.

Rev. H. Lichliter, a Methodist preacher, however, defended the stage as a modern institution and denounced as "muckrakers, who seek notoriety," the ministers who have united in the wholesale condemnation of everything relating to the stage.

COL. SHAUGHNESSY DEAD

Said to Have Fought Duel with Late Senator Lamar of Mississippi.

SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 9.—Colonel Michael Shaughnessy died here today of pneumonia.

Colonel Shaughnessy was born in Iowa 63 years ago. He served with a New York regiment in the Civil war and was wounded at Gettysburg. After the war he became clerk of the United States court and afterward United States marshal in Mississippi. While in the latter office, it is said, he became involved in a controversy with the late Senator Lamar of Mississippi which led to an exchange of shots on the field of honor. The duel was bloodless. It was this that caused Shaughnessy to leave Mississippi to accept the United States marshalship in the territory of Utah by appointment, by President Hayes, in 1878. Making a fortune in mining operations he purchased a beautiful home at Suffern-on-the-Hudson, in New York, and figured for a time in Wall Street. He lost much of his wealth and, in recent years, has engaged in mining in Utah.

Public Wants to Know if Returns Made by Corporations Are to Be Public Records.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Are the returns made by corporations under the law imposing a tax of 1 per cent on their net incomes to be open to inspection as public records?

The law says they are, and a decision soon must be reached by Secretary MacVeagh as to the latitude to be given in the interpretation of the statute.

Many inquiries have reached the internal revenue bureau on the subject. Some of them are expressions of satisfaction that an opportunity may be afforded to examine the operations of corporations, of which the writers say, though financially interested, they have not been able to learn the extent of their transactions or to ascertain other information of importance to stockholders. Already corporations have complied with the law in numerus cases. In some cases also, checks have been inclosed for the amount of the assessments as calculated by the corporations sending them. The assessments paid, however are subject to verification and if deficient, the difference will be collected.

The tax is not due before June and it is expected that many large corporations will defer making returns until the supreme court passes on the constitutionality of the law.

In spite of the many reports spread broadcast last week that the girl had been found, her relatives deny they have discovered any clue by which they can locate her. The police are working on the theory now that the waiter and the girl are concealed in Philadelphia.

"WILDFIRE" TONIGHT

One of the most successful plays now before the public is the great racing comedy, "Wildfire," which will be seen at the Opera House tonight, with Pauline Hall and Will Archie, the famous original "Bud." This much-talked-of play has been presented to capacity audiences in all the large cities during the past season, and has been pronounced by critics to be the greatest of all dramatic stories of the race course. The authorship of "Wildfire" is divided between two of our greatest playwrights, George H. Broadhurst, who wrote "The Man of the Hour" and a score of other successes, and George V. Hobart, the humorist known as "Dinkelspiel," and also author of Marie Cahill's present starring vehicle, "The Boys and Betty." The principal role, that of the widow, Mrs. Harrington, is being portrayed by the distinguished American actress, Pauline Hall, who, like Lillian Russell, has turned her back on the lyric stage and plunged into immediate success in the dramatic field. With this attraction is presented one of the most elaborate scenic productions of the season. Pauline Hall, the famous beauty, who will appear in the great racing comedy, wears some of the most stunning gowns of her career, and she has always been distinguished for her artistic costumes. It is worthy of note that, although Miss Hall visited Paris last summer in search of suitable gowns for her "Wildfire" tour, she came back almost empty-handed, having decided that right in New York she could secure more novel and artistic creations.

OPERA HOUSE TOMORROW

The Clipper quartet, which is one of the feature acts of the Orpheum vaudeville bill to be seen at the Opera House Tuesday and Wednesday of this week, three performances daily, was originally organized about a year ago to appear at the Actors Fund benefit in New York. The quartet was composed of four popular minstrel men who named the quartet after the New York Clipper, one of America's leading theatrical journals. The quartet was so popular at that single performance that one of the leading vaudeville magnates immediately secured them for a tour of the larger eastern cities. The quartet is now making its first appearance in the west. They play here on their way to Utah, breaking the jump by these two nights.

Chester and Grace are the second act on the bill. These two present a singing and dancing duo which is very pretty, because of its daintiness, its grace and the beautiful costumes the duo wear. Miss Carrie McManus will positively appear at each performance, singing new songs not yet heard in this city. Miss McManus is shortly to appear on a large eastern circuit, so there will not be many more chances to hear her.

Count de Buts and Tossell will present their expert and amusing bicycle act, which introduces some new and novel bicycle tricks as well as some comedy work. Russell and Church, a talking and dancing team, will be seen in "From Society to the Bowery."

The regular Opera House vaudeville prices will be charged for this engagement.

"A GIRL AT THE HELM"

H. H. Frazee's big musical comedy classic, "A Girl at the Helm," will be offered at the Opera House Thursday evening, with Billy Clifford and a host of helpers, principally pretty girls. The cast of principals has been carefully selected and includes, among others, Marguerite De Von, Hilda Mason, Mable Palmer, Harry Dickeson and Jack Trainor. "A Girl at the Helm" is a distinct departure from the ordinary musical comedy, in that its music is exquisite, the book consistent, funny and clever, and the ensemble numbers are delightfully artistic.

There are surprises without agitation, and a commendable plot with amusing situations not at all dependent on the music and dancing. The garnishing of the play lies not alone in its splendid, dainty chorus, its scenery and the motor boat race, but in the fairy-like electric effects with which its producer, H. H. Frazee, has so cleverly clothed it. "A Girl at the Helm" is high class, dainty, like its chorus, and makes and retains a good impression.

The six months' stay at the La Salle theater, Chicago, stamps this attraction as one of the most popular successes this successful producing playhouse has had in years.

IVORY SOAP is a bath soap; a toilet soap; a fine laundry soap. With it the Head of the House can keep his hands and face and body clean.

So can the Youngster, who will some day be the head of his own house.

As for the Wife and Mother, she finds it invaluable for preserving the beauty of her table-linen, her laces, curtains, cut glass and a hundred other articles in which she takes special pride.

GIVES STRONG SERMON

Dr. Johnston Speaks on "Love's Challenge" at Y. M. C. A. Services in Crystal Theater.

The second meeting of the evangelistic campaign being conducted by the Y. M. C. A., which was held yesterday afternoon at the Crystal theater, was even more successful than the first one, a week ago. There was an attendance of over 200 persons, and nine requests for prayer were received.

The Rev. Howard Agnew Johnston's address on "Love's Challenge," was an extraordinary strong sermon. The Y. M. C. A. orchestra gave several sacred selections.

CHURCH IS DEDICATED

Bishop Warren Officiates at Services in Asbury Methodist Building—Debt Nearly Paid.

The Asbury Methodist church, corner of Fourteenth street and Washington avenue, was formally dedicated by Bishop Henry W. Warren of Denver last night. The building has been in use for three years, but owing to the indebtedness, it was impossible to conduct the dedication ceremony at an earlier date.

The debt has been practically raised, and in order to pay off the balance, a series of lectures will be held at the First Presbyterian church at an early date, from which it is expected $250 may be realized.

Bishop Warren occupied the pulpit of the church yesterday morning, and the Rev. R. A. Chase in the evening. A rally meeting was held at the church in the afternoon, at which the Revs. Merle N. Smith and J. W. Neely of this city, and the Rev. O. L. Orton of Colorado City spoke.

SAYS CHURCH OUGHT TO MAKE A FIGHT

Dr. Franklin Gives Strong Sermon on Blame for Woman of Sin.

The Rev. James H. Franklin, pastor of the First Baptist church, preached a strong sermon from his pulpit last night on, "Where Lies the Blame for the Woman of Sin? Are Social Conditions Responsible?" The text was taken from John, 8:7: "He that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone at her." Mr. Franklin will follow up the subject next Sunday with a sermon on, "Divorce from the Christian Viewpoint." His sermon last night follows in part:

Dr. Franklin's Sermon.

There is a prudery or a squeamishness which dictates that the pulpit shall make no references to questions of social purity. That same squeamishness, however, does not object to certain Colorado papers which make special features of scandal. But the church must not hesitate to speak on those delicate subjects which Jesus discussed freely. Dr. Washington Gladden has said, "It is evident that the Christian pulpit cannot ignore these portentous forms of social disorder. If Jesus tried to help the fallen woman, it is right for the church to oppose conditions which occasion the temptation.

Dr. Josiah Strong, the eminent publicist, says there are 600,000 abandoned women in the United States. Rabbi Hirsch, of Chicago the distinguished Hebrew preacher, said the other day that the year 1909 was signalized not by its progress in material things, but by "the enthronement of the scarlet woman to reign over us." He declares that morality has been lowered as never before. Only last Monday was John D. Rockefeller, Jr., made foreman of a grand jury to investigate the white slave traffic in New York city.

Students of the situation affirm that the causes are largely social. Rabbi Hirsch is reported as follows: "He blames the business men, charging that modern business methods are responsible for the white slave traffic, general prostitution and the disruption of the home, and insists that nothing but better wages, more just and humane conditions for workmen and a change in business methods generally can ever improve the situation.

Dr. Josiah Strong names low wages as a prominent cause. But these are not the only conditions which contribute. Bad ideals, bad homes, bad amusements, bad men and bad wages are all social conditions which contribute to the downfall.

One of the chief causes is the dual standard. I do not know of better words than those of my good friend, Mr. George W. Coleman, publisher of the Christian Endeavor World. In an editorial he says:

Quotes George W. Coleman.

"The 'black-hand' villain and the bomb-throwing anarchist are the mad dogs of human society, and must be dealt with accordingly." * * * "But here is a man who is a black-hearted villain and a disease-spreading moral anarchist; and he is a thousand times more numerous than his twin brother who murders with bomb or stiletto. This man says in his heart deliberately that he will recognize neither the laws of God nor man as they relate to the sexes. The libertine, the man or woman of loose morals, the man who believes in one standard of morals for women and another for himself, the man who believes in young men's sowing wild oats, all of these are genuine moral anarchists, striking savage blows at the vitals of the home, at the heart of society, at the citadel of moral integrity, at the health of the body, and at the birthright of unborn children. Instead of wiping him and his breed off the face of the earth, we give him of our best and our fairest whenever he condescends to take them. * * * The ordinary anarchist murders society. Typhoid germs are worse than stray bullets."

Our social standards and economic conditions are largely responsible for the woman of sin. Oh, God, is it possible that we are helping even indirectly, to lead women into shame. Again let it be heard, "Neither do I condemn thee. Go and sin no more."

But what is the duty of the church? Provide rescue homes, some one says. Yes, by all means. Teach them that God forgives sin. Teach that love never faileth. Teach that the lost soul is the soul not yet found.

Steamships Run By the Sun.

SCEINCE SOON TO DISPEL DISEASE.

The radient energy falling on the deck of a steamer crossing the ocean—is sufficient, if it could be utilized, to propel the ship with greater speed than is now obtained from coal. Only one-third of the radiation is cut off by the air.

Light has a chemical energy so intense as to destroy micro-organic life. This energy in its different manifestations is a power in continuing life and curing disease. The X-ray which is really concentrated sun light, when applied to some of the less fatal chronic ailments of germ origin has proven very effective as a curative agent. This is the experience of the skilled specialists at Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute in Buffalo. Although this institution was founded many years ago by Dr. R. V. Pierce as a genuine home—not a hospital—for those afflicted with chronic disease yet it has kept abreast of the times and its trained specialists have become Medical authorities in their various lines.

The violet-ray treatment, another interesting proceeding, is produced by concentrating the light, rich in the violet or chemical rays from an arc light with a specially prepared carbon, upon any portion of the body that may be the seat of pain. Sufferers from neuralgia, sciatica, rheumatism, strains, sprains, also from those obscure exhausting pains (the origin of which cannot at times be accurately determined) frequently find immediate relief from a single treatment and usually with a little persistence in the use of this aid, obtain comfortable health or perfect recovery.

The incandescent light bath, consists of a cabinet in which the patient is bathed in the combined rays of many electric light globes. This treatment has produced really wonderful results in diabetes, sciatica, rheumatism, obesity, anemia, and some forms of kidney and heart trouble. It has also proven valuable in chronic bronchitis, bronchial asthma and various skin diseases. As a general hygienic measure its efficiency can scarcely be over-estimated.

The sick who have been treated at Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., have much to say in regard to this wonderfully equipped Sanatarium, where all the above electrical apparatus, as well as electric water baths, Turkish baths, static electric machines, high-frequency current, and other most modern and up-to-date apparatus is used for the cure of chronic diseases. The treatment of chronic diseases that are peculiar to women have for many years been a factor in the cures affected at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute.

The physicians and surgeons employed are among the most experienced and skillful in the country, men who have made these diseases their life study, and whose highest ambition is to excel in their treatment.

How well they have succeeded may be judged from the fact that their practice embraces cases from every State and Territory of the Union as well as from foreign lands. Many thousands are annually treated, either through correspondence or at Dr. Pierce's Institution. It is an old adage that, "Experience makes perfect," and the skilled specialists in this field of practice cure thousands of cases which have been abandoned as incurable by general practitioners. Hundreds are brought to the Institution from far distant states and they go home in a few weeks well and strong. Quite as marvelous are the thousands of cures annually accomplished through correspondence, while the patient remains quietly at home. Others consult in person, and after being examined are provided with specially prepared medicines and return home to carry out the treatment.

In medicine there has been rapid and real progress during recent years, and Dr. Pierce has kept up with the times in that he has had the manufacture and ingredients in his well-known remedies improved in a modern laboratory by skilled chemists, the greatest care being exercised to see that the ingredients entering into his well-known medicines Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription as well as the "Golden Medical Discovery" are extracted from the best variety of native medicinal roots. These are gathered with great care and at the proper season of the year, so that their medicinal properties may be most reliable.

These extracts are then made soluble in pure triple-refined glycerine and bottled.

Everyone who consults the specialists, whether by letter or in person receives the most careful attention.

Great care is exercised not to over encourage those who consult the specialists of this institution that no false hopes may be raised.

Consultation by letter or in person is absolutely free no charge whatever so that the public when afflicted are invited to write Dr. Pierce at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y.

HINER-STARRETT CASE WILL COME UP AGAIN

In the suit of L. Hiner to oust Clyde Starrett, police magistrate, the petitioner will file in the district court today a motion to strike out from Starrett's answer the part that says Hiner voluntarily surrendered the office, on the ground that it is "irrelevant, immaterial and insufficient." The plaintiff will also ask to strike out the part of the answer saying that Hiner invested Starrett with the powers of office. Again, Hiner wishes eliminated reference to the election of officers by the city, contending that the twentieth amendment to the state constitution does not give to cities of the first class, such as Colorado Springs, the right to determine what officers are to be chosen.

HIGH COURT AFFIRMS DEATH SENTENCES

EL PASO, Tex., Jan. 9.—News was received by the authorities in Juarez today that the court of last resort had affirmed the sentence of death passed upon Jose Lugo, formerly of Juarez, and 15 others who engaged in a riot at the town of Viesca, in the state of Chihuahua, last June, killing and wounding several persons and looting the postoffice, telegraph and revenue offices.

I don't know how long it will be before the store can be reopened. An inventory will have to be taken of the stock, and it will probably be some time before things can be put in order."

was taken with the intention of complimenting the speaker, and it will be reported to the Senate.

Speaker Cannon, it is said, feels that it would be impolitic for him to take advantage of this condition and override the expressed order of a majority of the House and it is probable, therefore, that the Senate will steer clear of a controversy with the other chamber.

It is now said that the speaker would prefer that the House elect the committee. In case this course prevails, the Republican members probably will designate their members in caucus, and it is claimed that in that event the insurgents would participate in the caucus proceedings.

"No matter how the general situation shapes itself the controversy between the secretary of the interior and Mr. Pinchot is bound to be the principal topic in congressional circles during the week. Officially the question will not again come up in the House until after the Senate acts.

The Senate committee on public lands will report its resolution tomorrow. So great is the interest in the matter that it is not thought that the resolution will be read without animated and personal debate.

Prevent General Investigation.

Every effort will be made to prevent the investigation of the administration in too general a way. The Senate calendar is still very lean, and aside from the Ballinger-Pinchot resolution, the prospect for the present week is not favorable to any legislation of importance. The House will proceed with the consideration of the army appropriation bill and it is thought that the measure will be before it until Tuesday night. By that time the fortifications bill will be reported and it will be taken up at the first opportunity.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Representative Fitzgerald of New York, the only Democratic member of the House who on Friday voted against the Democrats and "insurgents" in the fight that took from Speaker Cannon the power to appoint the House members of the joint committee to investigate the Pinchot-Ballinger controversy, said today that should the Senate return the joint resolution amended so as to provide for the appointment, by the speaker of the House, of members of the committee, he will offer a resolution to return it "on the ground that the action of the Senate is an invasion of the constitution prerogatives of the House."

"Personally," he added, "I favor the appointment of all committees by the speaker. In this instance, however, the House in the exercise of its unquestioned rights has decided that its members of the joint committee of investigation shall be elected. For the Senate to attempt to dictate the manner in which the House shall select its committee would be not only an invasion of the prerogatives of the House, but an inexcusable impertinence to be resented in a dignified and orderly way."

Crazed Father Kills Wife and Two Children, Then Commits Suicide.

BALLINGER, Texas, Jan. 9.—F. B. Kimbler, living in the northern part of this county, killed his wife, his 9-year-old son and his 3-year-old daughter, seriously wounded his niece, aged 20, and ended his own life by cutting his throat today.

Kimbler had been in bad health, but got up at the usual time and was assisting his wife in making fires. He stepped out and secured a hatchet ostensibly to cut kindling. Returning to the house he said,

"Wife we have all got to go," and killed her. Going over to the bed where the children were still asleep he attacked them also. Then he entered his niece's room anad struck her. Returning to the room where his wife lay unconscious on the floor Kimbler used a pocket knife to end his own life.

Mrs. Kimbler and the baby lived for five or six hours, but the 6-year-old boy was instantly killed. The young woman's recovery is doubtful.

Kimbler was a successful farmer.

LIBERAL LAND LAWS

Hawaii Needs Them, Says Former Queen—Japanese Question a Serious Problem.

CHICAGO, Jan. 9.—Former Queen Liliuokalani of Hawaii and a party of relatives and friends were in Chicago today en route to Washington, to confer over proposed legislation giving inhabitants of Hawaii more liberal land laws.

Former Prince Kalanianaole, son of the former queen, is one of the party. Speaking of the proposed legislation he said that his people want more liberal homestead rights.

"The Japanese question," he said, "will doubtless be a serious problem with us some day. I will not say that it is a serious question now, but we want laws that will be attractive to American citizens.

"In spite of the fact that my mother lost all her interests in the royal lands, we are not dissatisfied. Conditions are much better than they were before annexation."

THE FUTURE OF CRIPPLE CREEK.

[A RE]VIEW of present conditions and promised [develop]ments of the near future in the Cripple [Creek] District leads to the flattering conclusion [that] the great mining camp on the other side of [the] Peak is at the threshold of an era of pro[sperity] that will rival any it has enjoyed in [its] eighteen years of history.

[No] mining camp ever was "knocked" more as[siduous]ly or misrepresented more grossly than [Cripp]le Creek has been during the half-decade [since] the last strike, not only by the Western Fed[eration] of Miners but by many of its own citizens. [The] hills into which Bob Womack was the [first] to delve successfully in quest of the yellow [metal] continue year after year to yield their ac[customed] quota of wealth, in eloquent refutation [of the] assertions of those who, for whatever reason, [describe] the camp as "dead."

[Dur]ing the year just ended the Cripple Creek [district] produced 444,485 tons of ore of a gross [mill] value of $15,364,113, an average per month [of ap]proximately one and one-third million dollars [worth] of ore, running better than $21 per ton. [This] is slightly less than the production last year, [but m]aintains the average of the last half dozen [years]. Compared with the gross tonnage and [gross] value of the ore produced in the boom [days] of the District these figures show a decline. [But] to say that this indicates exhaustion of its re[sources] is to disregard the fact that at that time [it was] practically the only great gold camp on the [contine]nt and therefore attracted an unusual [amount] of capital, as well as that it was then im[possible] to treat low grade ores at a profit and [operati]ons were consequently restricted to the [high]er ore bodies.

[CRIPPLE CREEK ...ING ...VES.] With a production record of more than one-fourth of a billion dollars, it is necessarily true that immense deposits of ore have been exhausted, but the amount of territory, from surface [to w]ater level, yet unexplored, and the frequency [of] strikes in ground neglected for years, if [not co]mmonly looked upon as worthless, does not [exclu]de the possibility that within the limits of [the r]ecognized mineral bearing area there remains [wor]th hundreds of millions. Rather there is [every] reason to believe that further exploration [will co]ntinue to disclose new ore bodies sufficient, [toget]her with the mining of those already opened, [to ins]ure maintenance for a number of years of [approx]imately the production of the present. The [recent] finds on the El Paso and the Stratton's [Indepe]ndence last year are striking examples.

[Whe]re the future of the District, however, de[pends] wholly on development along this line, [there] could be anticipated but a steadily dimin[ishing p]roduction. But there are two phases of the [camp']s activity which in their promise of adding [years] to its life, overshadow it in importance. [One is] the prosecution of deep mining; the other [the pe]rfecting of processes for treating low grade [ores].

[Ope]rations below the water level in several of [the gre]at mines situated in various parts of the [dist]rict, have proven to the satisfaction of mining [men] that the ore bodies continue with depth to [mainta]in their size and impregnation. In fact, [durin]g the last three years shoots have been found [at de]pths of from 1,200 to 1,500 feet rivaling in [richness an]y ever uncovered nearer the surface. The [comple]tion of the Roosevelt Deep Drainage tunnel, [which] now within a few months, is confidently [expec]ted to and undoubtedly will—drain the [camp su]fficiently to permit economical mining at [several] hundreds of feet lower (varying in dif[ferent] sections of the camp) than any yet reached. [Fro]m such operations it has been predicted [by co]nservative mining men, intimately familiar [with] the conditions, that two hundred million dol[lars w]orth of gold will be added to the record of [the Distr]ict.

[The] impossibility of estimating with any de[gree] of accuracy the tonnage of low grade ore [that] lies untouched in the mines and on the dumps [of the ca]mp renders idle any attempt to put into [figures] the addition to its output which will follow [the adve]nt of these ores by the cheap processes [now] being perfected. But the quantity of [such] ore is so vast that the yield from this [source] will be limited only by the extent to which [capital] takes advantage of the opportunity it will [offer for] safe and profitable investment.

[The adve]nt of the low grade treatment [process] is near at hand. Indeed it may almost [be spoken] of as an accomplished fact. The Port[land comp]any, after exhaustive tests of a process [which has] not been made public, is now building [a mill] of 300 to 400 tons daily capacity which [within the] next ninety days will be in full opera[tion. Sev]eral smaller mills are at present treat[ing ore at a] profit ore running as low as $3 per ton.

[The] most interesting of recent [de]velopments in that direction is [that] brought out in the annual report of the Stratton's Independence, limited, [ma]de public a few days ago. The [new] immense mill—the largest in the Dis[trict]— [...]ger Argall states, is operating on dump ores at a profit, the total milling cost on a monthly turnover of from 6,500 to 7,000 tons, being only $1.63 per ton. On ore averaging only $4 per ton in gold, a profit of $10,000 per month is being made.

The process used is entirely different from the so-called "Portland" process, the latter being a straight cyaniding method without roasting, and it marks another great stride toward the perfection in the near future of methods of treatment of the various types of refractory telluride ores found in the camp which will make possible the milling of the lowest grades of ores at a high percentage of profit. The erection of local treatment plants that will handle an enormous tonnage is sure to follow general knowledge of these cheap treatment methods.

Taking all these factors into consideration, there seems every reason to believe that the Cripple Creek District yet has a brilliant future. And so intimately connected with that of the great gold camp is the prosperity of the cities on this side of the Peak that the people of Colorado Springs and vincinity hope no less earnestly than do the residents of the camp itself, that this expectation will be realized.

When the vote in the House on the Ballinger inquiry resolution showed that Speaker Cannon had been beaten, his opponents yelled themselves hoarse. They would do well to reserve their ammunition, for "Uncle Joe" will fight to the death.

Let none hereafter accuse the President of being meticulous. His transformation from pacificator to protagonist seems to be complete. Which is to say that now that he sees he has got to fight he is showing that he isn't afraid to.

The curiosity of the American public is such that it would collectively be willing, no doubt, to pay a million or so for a statement from Roosevelt as to what he thinks of this Taft-Pinchot business.

Do we hear "dee-lighted" from the depths of the African jungles or is the sound but a phantasm conjured by the subconscious mind?

The inventor of the first pill-making machine is dead. The fact calls to mind what Tennyson said about the brook.

A boy was found frozen to death the other day with a cigarette in his mouth. Another victim of the deadly habit?

RESCUE STATIONS FOR MINERS.

From the Peoria Herald-Transcript.

Senator Collum has commenced a campaign for the establishment of relief stations for the mining districts of the United States, so that when an accident happens in any mine the best trained and best equipped assistance to entombed or injured miners may be rushed to the scene of the disaster without delay.

This is something which should have been organized long ago, and the senator from Illinois is to be congratulated upon being the leader in the reform. The coasts of the United States are studded with life-saving stations, so that when a vessel meets with disaster under the buffets of the tempest or the sea the life-savers rush to the rescue of the crew and passengers.

The men who toil in the midnight of the mines are exposed to more immediate and ever present dangers than are the men who go down to the sea in ships, and yet the nation has made no sort of provision for their protection or rescue in case of accident.

WHERE PLEASURES ARE VANITIES.

From the Chicago Tribune.

The limitations of human nature were revealed painfully when Chicago surgeons made their first use of stovaine as an anaesthetic. One has no difficulty in sympathizing with the doctors who desired the patient to illustrate the triumph of science by smoking as he lay on the operating table sustaining the attack of the lancets, and even less difficulty in understanding the mental state of the latter who found himself unequal to an enjoyment of ordinary pleasures.

"I seldom smoke," said the patient, whom the reporter pictured as gripping the edges of the table until his knuckles were white. "I don't feel like smoking just now, anyway. Of course, I'd be glad to do anything to oblige you, and if you feel the same way towards me you will hurry up and get this thing through with."

It was asking too much, even for the sake of science, and, moreover, the request may have been ill advised from the medical standpoint. If the patient be encouraged to seek diversions, he may insist on practicing on the cornet or the piccolo, thus making the operation a matter of distress to all concerned.

THE SUGAR TRUST CONVICTIONS.

From the Chicago Record-Herald.

Five employes of the sugar trust, including a dock boss, have been found "guilty" by a New York jury—guilty of swindling and defrauding the federal government. As to the guilt of the cashier, Bendernagel, the jury disagreed, and apparently the evidence did not sufficiently connect him with the thieving by means of false weights and the bribing of the underlings.

Counsel for the defendants pleaded with the jury for their acquittal on the ground that they were mere tools in the hands of men "higher up," but of course the law cannot accept any such excuse, though it may regard it as relevant in a recommendation of mercy. However, the plea is significant, as the prosecution fully recognizes. Punishment of the small fry among the sugar thieves will not satisfy justice or the community. It is quite obvious that the gigantic sugar frauds could not have been conceived and carried on for years without the knowledge and approval of the higher officials and beneficiaries. If it is possible to convict them, if the necessary evidence is procurable, no time should be lost, no energy spared, in pursuing the investigation and tracing the criminal and shameful conspiracy to its source.

Since the federal government has taken up the sugar frauds various settlements have been made and stolen money has been surrendered with some alacrity. But, as Mr. Wickersham has stated, these transactions can in no wise affect criminal prosecutions of willful thieves, whether they belong to the "meanest of trusts" or to its competitors. The federal government has promised to go high and probe deep; and the New York verdict is only a beginning.

NEW TREATMENT FOR PNEUMONIA.

From the Chicago Tribune.

In the belief of the Harvard faculty of medicine the time is not far off when the leucocyte theory is to be put into practical use by physicians. Metchnikoff's discovery of the leucocytes, the "cavalry of the blood," has led to experiments made by members of the Harvard Medical school in which the pugnacious white corpuscles have been used to save 36 out of 48 pneumonia patients treated with them. Even conservative scientists who have watched the experiments think that it is not impossible that the greater proportion of infectious diseases will yield to the leucocyte treatment.

The Harvard experimenters injected irritants into the throat of a rabbit and then, after 24 hours' waiting, killed the animal and extracted the fighting leucocytes to the number of 20,000,000. These were prepared in the form of an extract and injected into the pneumonia patients with the result given. It is asserted that the deaths by pneumonia can be lessened by 50 per cent through the use of the white corpuscles. It is proposed to experiment with some other diseases, and the scientists confidently hope that the results in those cases will be equally successful. If this should prove to be the case, the discovery will be one of the greatest boons humanity has ever known and the Russian savant and his American pupils will be hailed as world benefactors.

A MOST IMPORTANT QUESTION.

From the Providence Journal.

Are the corporation tax sections of the tariff bill constitutional? Will the supreme court sustain the view of their constitutionality held by President Taft, Attorney General Wickersham and Senator Root or will it, as the case of the income tax, declare the law a violation of the federal constitution?

The answer to these questions now concerns thousands of corporations, ranging from the Standard Oil with all its allied interests to the smallest hardware concern that holds a state charter. The increasing opposition to the tax, due to the cost and trouble of preparing the returns, and more particularly to the galling publicity from which Secretary MacVeagh has shown that there can be no escape, makes it absolutely certain that many of the returns and payments will be made under protest and that a case will be brought as soon as possible to the highest tribunal of the land.

The growing hostility to the measure seems to warrant the prediction that, even if the supreme court upholds the tax, there will be an insistent and immediate demand for its repeal. Already many eminent lawyers are going on record as believing that the court cannot agree with President Taft and his associates as to the validity of the "excise."

That will be the most important question that the supreme court has been required to pass upon for many years.

The Daily Chit-Chat

If people could only stop wanting to possess things and do things just because other people want them, the world would be a very much simpler and happier place.

Half the dissatisfaction and unhappiness in the world comes from our lacking, not the things we really have a sane, normal desire for, but the things we want because we know other people want them.

If people were contented with the things they themselves really wanted, and didn't strive after the thing they want because other people want them, there would be a great many more contented people in the world.

Are you wondering exactly what I mean by wanting things because other people want them.

Well, take the Harvard-Yale football game, for example.

Forty thousand people went to that game last fall. Tremendous prices were paid for tickets. According to newspaper statements, many single tickets brought $25, several pairs went for $100 or $150, and one man who was particularly anxious to have eight seats together paid $2,000 for the block.

Now, do you imagine that all the people who paid those enormous prices for tickets cared $50 or $75 or $250 worth just to see that football game.

Indeed they didn't. Some may have paid their money because they were that anxious to see the contest between Harvard and Yale, but I am ready to wager that there were a good many people who paid large money for tickets who would not have gone to that game if it had been free. And I am also pretty certain that at least one-quarter of the women who allowed their husbands or brothers or friends to pay so extravagantly for their tickets, permitted it, not because they were so devoted to the game of football, but simply and solely because they knew all their neighbors wanted to go.

If you don't believe that, let me tell you what a girl who traveled from Chicago to Boston just to be present at the great occasion said when I asked her if she were extravagantly fond of football.

"Oh, no; I don't care such a great deal about the game. To tell the truth, I don't understand it very well. I seldom go to a game at home. But you know all my friends were just crazy to go to this game, so of course, when I had the invitation I just jumped at it."

Of course, that is an extreme example, but I don't believe there are many of us whose pleasure in our possessions and opportunities is not to some degree enhanced by knowing that these possessions and opportunities seem desirable to other people.

If you don't believe that, let me ask a few questions.

Would the little dry goods clerk enjoy her evening at the opera so much if she could not tell about it the next morning to the other less fortunate clerks?

Would a trip abroad be regarded as quite such a desirable thing if anybody could go at any time?

People say they love diamonds just because they are beautiful, but doesn't it seem probable to you that the fact that so many desire and so few can possess these precious stones adds something to their luster?

The man who has the courage and independence of mind to choose ABSOLUTELY ALL of his pleasures and possessions because he himself takes delight in them, and not in the very least because the desire of the crowd has given them a fictitious value, is the man who will get the most possible happiness out of life.

But where is he?

I don't know. Do you?

Baked Bananas.—Strip off one-third of the skin of each banana, and with a spoon loosen the remainder from the fruit. Arrange in a baking pan, the stripped side uppermost. On each lay one-half of a teaspoonful of butter in bits, and sprinkle with one teaspoonful of sugar and one-half of a teaspoonful of lemon juice. Bake for twenty minutes in a hot oven. The bananas may be entirely stripped if desired, but the skin contains considerable pectin which it is well to have.

Apple Pudding.—Peel, core and quarter some tart apples; boil them with a little water until easy to be mashed with a spoon; take one-quarter of a pound of the mashed apple, add the same weight of butter and sugar while still hot; let the mixture cool, then beat into it three eggs beaten to a stiff foam, and the grated peel of one lemon. Butter a pudding form, dust it over with powdered sugar, and bake in a quick oven. It will take about half an hour. Try by inserting a straw in the middle. If nothing attaches to it when pulled out the baking is done. Serve warm.

SINAI AND CALVARY

There are two mountains hallowed
By majesty sublime,
Which rear their crests unconquered
Above the floods of time.
Uncounted generations
Have gazed on them with awe—
The mountain of the gospel,
The mountain of the law.

From Sinai's cloud of darkness
The vivid lightnings play,
They serve the God of vengeance,
The Lord who shall repay,
Each fault must bring its penance,
Each sin the avenging blade,
For God upholds in justice
The laws that he hath made.

But Calvary stands to ransom
The earth from utter loss
In shade than light more glorious
The shadow of the cross
To heal the sick world's trouble,
To soothe its woe and pain,
On Calvary's sacred summit,
The Paschal Lamb was slain.

Almighty God direct us
To keep thy perfect law!
O blessed Savior, help us
Nearer to thee to draw
Let Sinai's thunders aid us
To guard our feet from sin
And Calvary's light inspire us
The love of God to win.

FIND PAINTINGS IN CAVE.

Strange Picture No One Is Able to Decipher.

From the Kansas City Journal.

SPOKANE, Wash.—The old Indian cave recently discovered about two miles from Cliffs, Wash., has been visited by many persons during the last few weeks. There are a large number of Indian paintings on the interior walls of the cave, but so far no one giving them has been able to decipher any meaning.

The cave has a sand floor, which is very strange, as it is in one of the highest cliffs, which is practically all rock in the surroundings. The sand must have been carried there, where it forms a level floor. Some of the visitors have dug into this floor, hoping to find some hidden treasures, but so far nothing has been reported, although holes more than three feet deep have been dug into the sand.

The cave is large enough to make shelter for 250 to 300 persons standing, and no doubt was a valuable asset to the Indian tribe that made it.

Part of the cave appears to be of a natural cavity made by the disintegrated lava rock, while a good portion of it must have been worked out in a crude way by human hands 1,000 or more years ago.

There is still another wonder that produces thought for study as to its probable use, and that is a window carved through the cliff rocks about fifteen rods from the cave. This window is about a foot wide by three feet in height.

Standing on the cliff in which this window and cave are located, many miles of the surrounding country can be seen at a glance. From the window through the cliff one can look over a flat of about 100 acres 200 or more feet lower down, lying between the river and the cliffs.

Although the steamship is a century old there are still more than 86,000 sailing vessels on the high seas.

BY RAIL FROM U. S. TO CENTRAL AMERICA

ONE PLAN OF PROGRESSIVE GUATEMALA.

Little Republic Has Made Study of English Compulsory in Its Public Schools.

V.—GUATEMALA, LEADER OF THE REPUBLICS.

By Frederic J. Haskin.

Whether it be in the importance of its business affairs, in the position of influence it holds among the group of little republics, or in the advanced policies of its government, Guatemala takes first rank among the five nations of Central America. In no other way is the progressiveness of the Guatemalans shown so well as by the fact that the study of English has been made compulsory in the public schools. Even the primary pupils are compelled to study it. In issuing the order the president said that there are too many opportunities open to the master of English to permit the Guatemalan youth to grow up without a speaking knowledge of it.

Another illustration of the enterprise of the Guatemalans is their determination to have rail connection with the United States. They are arranging to have their narrow gauge roads widened, and all links filled in to give them direct connection with the national lines of Mexico, and through them with New Orleans, Chicago Washington, and New York. It is expected that the concessions already granted will result in the early completion of this work. It then will be possible for the traveler to take a Pullman in New York or San Francisco and go to the very heart of Central America without change of cars.

Guatemala is the most populous of the five republics, having a population of nearly two million souls. Salvador is the only other state with a million people. Guatemala has the densest population with the exception of Salvador, and is the only one of the republics with an export trade amounting to more than ten millions dollars a year. Coffee is its principal article of export, although tropical fruits, precious and dye-woods and minerals add much to the total of the things it has to sell.

There are three principal classes of people in Guatemala—the whites, who are mainly Spaniards and Americans; the Indians, who have maintained their racial integrity through four centuries of white domination; and the Ladinos, who are a kind of racial jumble, with the blood of three of the five great races of mankind in their veins. The whites are exclusive and are unpopular with the Ladinos, who are in turn hated by the Indians. The whites are cultured, but fond of ease and luxury. The Ladinos work, but the Indians shirk as long as necessity will permit. The latter refuse to be civilized, and their main way of making money is by competing with the little Guatemalan donkeys as freight carriers.

Bands of Indians come into the cities bearing all sorts of burdens on their backs or heads. They have a queer custom of trotting like horses for long distances, keeping step as they go. One may be carying a cupboard, another a sofa, another a bureau, another a barrel, and another a lot of chickens. Sometimes an Indian, his mule and his wife travel together, each well laden. The woman may have a load on her head and a baby on her hip. Most of the men have a mecapal and net, the mecapal being a band around the forehead, to which the net is attached—a sort of carry-all for small packages. The Indian bends over as he walks and the load in the net rests on his back. The mecapal is a fit companion to the yoke which is attached to the horns of an ox instead of to the neck. Many business men prefer the Indian freight carriers to mules and oxen.

Indians Are Primitive.

Nearly two-thirds of the entire population of Guatemala are Indians, and most of them live in the same primitive way that their ancestors did before the arrival of Columbus. They knew nothing about intoxicants in those days, however, so that their chief dissipation has come with white civilization. They are now hard drinkers. At an Indian funeral one may see the "mourners" carrying jugs of liquor, and the debauch, begun shortly after the death of the occupant of the coffin, reaches a grand climax shortly after the interment.

The productivity of the soil of Guatemala is almost beyond belief. When the traveler to Central America is told that fence posts grow in the ground he is apt to be skeptical, but when he gets there he sees it with his own eyes. The posts begin to sprout and finally take root and flourish as trees. A three thousand-acre plantation in Guatemala produces each year 1,200,000 pounds of coffee, 30,000 pounds of sugar, 300,000 bottles of cane rum and 22,000 gallons of milk. The regular force on this plantation varies from 90 to 1,300 hands. Coffe is the principal crop of the country and amounts to about 75,000,000 pounds annually.

The government is trying to encourage the growth of hennequen, a variety of sisal hemp, and is offering a bounty on all that is exported. At the same time all machinery for the growing of hennequen and the manufacture of its fiber is allowed to enter the country free of duty. The growers are also given military exemption in proportion to the number of acres of this crop they cultivate. There are nearly 350 medicinal plants which grow in Guatemala, besides 140 kinds of commercially valuable wood. Altogether it has 400 species of trees.

Guatemala was settled in 1522, and since that time there have been some fifty important volcanic eruptions within its boundaries. Fully half of these were eruptions by Fuego, one of the most remarkable volcanoes on the globe. It is noted for the regularity of its minor eruptions and for its rumblings. Some 300 important earthquakes have also occurred in Guatemala during the same period. In the centuries before the Spaniards came to Central America, the Indians sought to appease the wrath of the volcanoes by throwing maidens into the fiery craters. After the Spaniards came the priests blessed the volcanoes, and received them into the church. But even Santa Maria, for centuries regarded as extinct, had a case of backsliding that caused the death of many poor souls.

Yellow fever epidemics have seldom affected Guatemala, and deaths from other tropical diseases are more infrequent than would be supposed. The greater part of the country has considerable elevation, and it is said that an ascent of one mile is equivalent, in climatic change, to traveling northward a thousand miles from the equator. Hence it is that one may find on the high plateaus some of the most pleasant regions in the world.

Using Modern Methods.

The railroads of Guatemala have been greatly improved in recent years. Formerly when it became necessary to supply the engine with water the crew and passengers had to form a bucket brigade from an adjacent stream to the tender. Many of the railroad men are from the United States. They are well paid, but there are so many drinking places and other attractions that they have little of their wages at the end of the month. One of them told a traveler not long ago that he had been trying for three years to save enough to pay his transportation back to the States, but that he was still broke. Next day he was seen at the bullfight tossing dollar bills to the small boys.

The Guatemalan dollar is worth only about eight cents. In other words a five dollar gold piece in American money is worth upwards of sixty dollars in Guatemalan money. The "cambia de moneda," or money exchange, occurs almost as frequently as the "cantina," or drinking saloons, and even the bootblacks keep as close watch on the fluctuations of the money market as Wall Street brokers when things are doing on the Street. The president of Guatemala was asked by an American why gold and silver were discontinued as money, and he replied that it was on account of the poor classes, to whom sixty dollars looked larger, even if it were Guatemalan paper, than five dollars in American gold.

No other country is more famous for its holidays. It has been jocularly stated that each year the people there have 365 holidays exclusive of Sundays. One of the most beautiful of Guatemalan holidays is the fiesta of Minerva, when the children of the republic celebrate in honor of the public school system. Near the Temple of Minerva, where these celebrations occur is a relief map of the republic, done in brick and cement. It is of eighty square meters, and is a graphic study of the geography of Guatemala.

That Guatemala is progressive is shown by the fact that it has established a Pasteur institute, and that vaccination has been made compulsory by the national congress. One begins to realize that this little country has a history when it is recounted that its first capital had a hundred thousand inhabitants when Boston was but a village, and New York little more than a Dutch trading post. In the eighteenth century its capital was the third city on the Western Hemisphere, only the city of Mexico and Lima, Peru, outranking it.

COURAGE

Smile, though the very heart of thee
Be wounded to the quick;
The candle bright alone sheds light,
But ne'er the blackened wick.

Smile though just beneath thy smile
Despair's brood croucheth fierce;—
Oft sunlight through the darkest cloud
A shining way can pierce.

Smile, though every fiber, nerve,
Be quivering with pain
The rainbow's hues are brightest

ROOSEVELT MAY BE GUEST OF PRESS CLUB

LOCAL ORGANIZATION TO EXTEND INVITATION.

Appoints Committee to Communicate With Former President on His Return—Elects Directors.

Former President Theodore Roosevelt will be invited to be the guest of the Pikes Peak Press club in Colorado Springs on his return from his hunting trip in Africa.

At the annual meeting of the club, in its rooms in the Hagerman building yesterday afternoon, Charles T. Wilder, Albert R. Gardner and E. A. Rosenfeld were appointed a committee to extend an invitation to Mr. Roosevelt to visit here when he returns from Africa. Mr. Roosevelt is an honorary member of the Press club.

For several weeks large western and southern cities have been agitating the return of "Teddy" from the Pacific coast, thus giving him an opportunity to cross the continent on his way home. The Press club committee probably will confer with committees appointed by commercial organizations in the leading cities that wish to entertain Mr. Roosevelt.

At yesterday's meeting the following directors were elected for the ensuing year: James H. McKechnie, Elwood H. Fawcett, T. Ernest Nowels, William G. Johnston and Bruce A. Gustin. The directors will meet in a few days and elect officers. The retiring officers are: James H. McKechnie, president; W. R. Fawcett, secretary, and E. A. Rosenfeld, treasurer.

PAYS $52.50 FOR A BOX OF 80 APPLES

E. A. SWENSON WILL SEND THEM TO PRES. TAFT.

Record Price Established—Grown in Rapidly Progressing Antlers-Silt District.

By paying $52.50 last Saturday for a box of 80 apples, which won first prize at the apple show in Denver last week, E. A. Swenson of Colorado Springs, representing the Antlers Orchard Development company, established a world's record price for apples. The fruit, which was grown by E. A. Fleming in his orchard in the Antlers-Silt district in Garfield county, Colo., will be sent to President Taft with the compliments of the Antlers Orchard Development company.

The company is putting through an irrigation project in the Antlers country that will necessitate the expenditure of $200,000. An intake canal, eight miles in length, is being built from Rifle creek to the main reservoir. More than one-half mile of the canal is being built through solid rock, a feat never before accomplished in Colorado irrigation history. The canal will have a carrying capacity of 80 cubic feet a second, and will carry water to the main reservoir, which has a capacity of 174,000,000 cubic feet and irrigates 4,000 acres of land. A force of 100 men is working on the canal, which will be completed by April 1.

At the annual meeting of the company a few days ago, the following directors, all of this city, were elected: T. E. Curtin, E. A. Sunderlin, W. M. Hager, E. A. Swenson, L. E. Curtis, Henry Hine and W. F. Richards. Officers were elected as follows: Mr. Curtin, president; Messrs. Hine and Richards, vice presidents; Mr. Swenson, secretary-treasurer. The company made a special price of $200 an acre on its holdings for the apple show and more than 500 acres have already been disposed of.

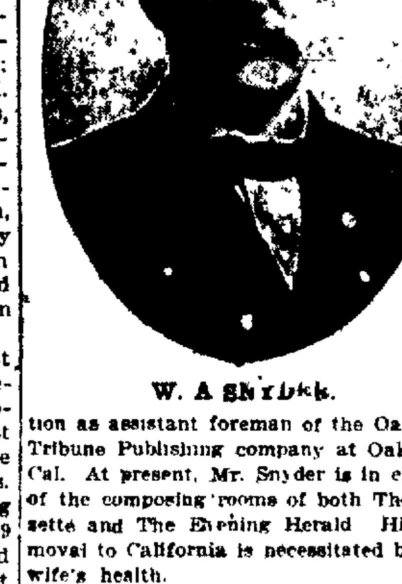

"The apple show was the 'greatest ever,'" said Mr. Swenson upon his return from Denver last night. "Colorado people, as well as others, are just beginning to realize how extensive the apple industry in the state really is. One unusual feature of apple growing in the Antlers district, which is 19 miles west of Glenwood Springs, and betwen Rifle and Newcastle, is that smudge pots have never been used there. The orchards in this territory are protected on every side but the south, and the growers have not lost a single crop of apples.

Our price paid for the blue ribbon box of apples is not the only world's record made at the Denver show. C. H. Coe, another Antlers apple grower, sold eight boxes of 80 apples each, for $15 a box. Messrs. Coe, Fleming and W. S. Park, all Antlers apple growers, won 11 firsts, eight seconds, and nine third prizes of a monetary value of $300.

W. A. Snyder, for Nine Years Foreman Gazette Composing Room, Goes to Coast.

W. A. Snyder, for the last nine years foreman of The Gazette composing room, one of the most able printing foremen in the west, and prominent in I. T. U. circles, will leave this week to accept a position as assistant foreman of the Oakland Tribune Publishing company at Oakland, Cal. At present, Mr. Snyder is in charge of the composing rooms of both The Gazette and The Evening Herald. His removal to California is necessitated by his wife's health.

W. A. SNYDER.

Before coming to Colorado Springs, Mr. Snyder was in the Kansas State printing office for 16 years. He will be succeeded here by C. D. Majors, also a well-known foreman, and his present assistant. Mr. Snyder was a delegate from Colorado Springs to the I. T. U. convention in Toronto in 1905, and it was due largely to his efforts that the convention was secured for this city in 1906. He was vice chairman of the committee on arrangements and chairman of the souvenir committee, which prepared the most elaborate souvenir book ever given by any organisation. Mr. Snyder had charge of the arrangement of the book.

CAN CHARGE ADMISSION

Park Commission Has No Doubt of Authority, If It Buys South Cheyenne Canon.

There is no doubt in the mind of the park commission that Colorado Springs can charge admission to South Cheyenne canon if the park becomes the property of the city despite a report to the contrary. In discussing the question, Judge H. G. Lunt of the park commission said:

"The charter provides that the city may purchase the street railway system. It would surely be permitted to charge people for riding on the cars. In like manner, it seems to me, and the attorneys who are investigating are of the same opinion, that the city can charge admission to the park if the deal is carried through."

ARTICLES FILED

Pikes Peak Lodge No. 38, I. O. O. F., Building Association, Is Formally Incorporated

Articles of incorporation have been filed in Denver by the Pikes Peak Lodge No. 38, I. O. O. F., Building association, capitalized at $40,000. The incorporators are L. W. Cunningham, A. A. Walling and Thomas Douglas.

The association was organised to erect a new Odd Fellows temple at the southwest corner of Bijou street and Nevada avenue. Excavating work for the new building has been stopped temporarily by the cold weather, but will be resumed again in a few days. A handsome brick building is to be erected. The home when fully furnished will cost in the neighborhood of $50,000.

Among regular cannibals the most varied motives have been found. There are Indians who are said to eat their enemies by way of insult, and Australians will consume their deceased parents as a mark of affection. Some tribes devour the dead enemy to abolish him utterly; others to assimilate his virtues.
